Hunting Season Opens Today

Reports from Edmonton, where duck shooting opens on Sept. 1st, indicate that an increased number of mallards will fly south this fall while fewer smaller ducks have been seen on the northern sloughs.

The duck-shooting season opens today, (Thursday) but shooting will not be permitted until noon.

The bag limit for ducks is 15 per day before October 1st and 25 per day thereafter until November 14th, when the season closes. One person is not permitted to shoot more than 100 in the season. Limit for geese is 10 per day and 25 per season. Limit for rails, coots and Wilson snipe is 25 per day and 100 per season.

Hungarian partridge are reported plentiful all over Alberta. A two-months' seal has been set for those game birds, October 1st to November 30th. Prairie-chicken are more plentiful than last year and a two-weeks' shot has been declared, October 1st to 15th, in the south half of the province.

Every person shooting or hunting game birds is required to take out a license, except farmers, who are permitted to shoot without a license on their own property. Licenses may be obtained at the Builders Hardware Store and Mac's Service Hardware.

WEEKLY SERMONETTE

"If you will take care of the going-down, God will take care of the going-up."

Mrs. Charles Mardon reports that she has grown 53 vegetable marrow all over 10 lbs. each from one 5-cent packet of seed. She also grew 23 citrons averaging 6-lbs. each, also from one 5-cent packet of seed.

Harvesting Nears Completion

The end of this week will see practically all of the grain out in this district and already the hum of the threshing machine is being heard in various parts of the neighborhood. Threshing in general, however, will not commence until the beginning of next week.

The first load of grain from a threshing machine was brought to the Bawlf elevator by Mr. L. Holmes on Friday last. The wheat was of the Garnet variety and graded No. 2.

W. Moon commenced threshing for the Didsbury Dairy on Tuesday morning and threshed both wheat, oats and barley.

Ottawa House To Assemble October 6

Parliament will assemble Thursday October 6th and official notice to this effect was made early Tuesday afternoon by Prime Minister Bennett. The announcement came following a meeting of the cabinet.

The session will be a regular session of both houses of parliament, Premier Bennett emphasized. This statement definitely set at rest a published report that the fall meeting would be a special session.

While no official intimation has been made, the likelihood is that parliament will sit for five or six weeks and adjourn about the middle of November. Both houses would probably re-assemble early in January.

The fall part of the session it is suggested, would be devoted almost entirely to consideration and ratification of the trade agreements entered into by Canada at the Imperial Conference.

Washed-out Bridges Will Be Replaced

The bridges and culverts west of here which were washed out during the severe storm a few weeks ago will be replaced.

Representations were made by the Westerville Municipality to the Provincial Department of Public Works and the department agreed to furnish the material and build two new bridges. The municipality will supply the material for two other bridges which the government will erect. The bridge crew is expected to be here this week and will stay on the job until all four bridges are completed.

The bridges to be built by the department will be: South of Sec 4 31 4.5, south of Elkton, and South of Sec. 18 32 3.5, near the Heathcote place. The other bridges will be: one East and one North of P.E. of 33 31.3 5, near H. Farrant's place.

A number of culverts which were washed out will also be replaced and the work is expected to be done in the near future.

Over $200.00 in prize money will be awarded. This is made possible by each school district contributing the sum of $30.00, together with the government grant.

In the afternoon there will be a good program of sports and races for the schoolchildren. An admission fee of 25-cents will be charged.

The Holding Of Conferences

The holding of conferences has become such a common practice since the close of the Great War, and, considering the magnitude of world problems still calling for solution, so little has apparently been accomplished that many people are inclined to question the utility of such gatherings and to be critical of the comparatively heavy expense which they entail. Within recent months, for example, there has been the International Conference on Disarmament held at Geneva; the London Conference on war debts and reparations, the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa; a preferential trade within the British Empire, and very shortly a world economic conference is to assemble at London, England. Are they worth while, and have they really accomplished anything, people are asking?

There are, however, certain types of people who believe all attempts to remedy evils and achieve reforms by way of negotiation and compromise. They pretend failure for each conference in advance of its meeting, perhaps, in most cases, the wish being fatal to the prediction, because they hold to the view that the existing financial and economic system of the world cannot be remedied but must be torn up root and branch, completely destroyed, and replaced by an entirely different system founded on new principles. Others, in reality, have seemingly lost confidence in the ability or willingness of the nations to abandon their interests, selfish nationalistic policies and programmes and work together for the common good of all.

While progress has been slow, and many of these conferences disappointing in the tangible results accomplished, it would be a great mistake to regard them as failures. For example, while the world still has a long way to travel along the road of total disarmament, it is travelling in that direction, as witness the real advance made in the limitation in the number, size and power of naval craft to be maintained by the leading maritime nations. Disarmament can only be brought about by a restoration of confidence and trust among peoples; it is a matter of education and each conference held is a mighty factor in enlightening peoples' minds and stirring their consciences. Each such conference helps each nation to more fully understand and appreciate the viewpoint of other nations. And that is an essential first step to delicate action.

Complete failure was predicted in advance for the Lausanne conference on war debts and reparations. Of course it did not achieve everything that was hoped of it. No conference ever does, probably never will. But the Lausanne conference did, as is now almost universally admitted, accomplish a great deal and take a long step forward towards the goal of a reasonable settlement of this most vexing problem which has been an outstanding obstacle to the world's restoration to financial and economic health.

Failure was likewise predicted for the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa. Whatever its accomplishments—and these will not be fully known until the details of the agreements signed are laid before the respective parliaments of the Empire—the conference did not end in failure. It failed of course to reach all the decisions that many people desired, and, on the other hand, it failed in the eyes of others because it reached decisions to do things not acceptable to them. Where so many conflicting interests had to be reconciled, and failing complete agreement, compromises reached, it follows that what is regarded as failure by one interest or group is acclaimed as success by the opposing group, and vice versa. Success or failure are therefore comparative terms. The main thing is that each component part of the Empire now understands the position, problems and economic difficulties of all other parts as never before, and each has displayed a willingness to go as far as possible in solving those problems and overcoming those difficulties. That is all gain, and full of promise for the future. The conference really sounds the death-knell of extremist trade restrictionist policies and unlocks the door of freer and wider Empire trade. This must inevitably lead to free and wider world trade.

Finally, those who are critical and sceptical of the value of these conferences will do well to remember that in older days nations did not trouble very much to confer about their difficulties and strive to find a way out compatible with the dignity and interests of all; rather they were glad to find even the smallest excuse to wage war on each other. The world is turning away from that barbarism, and conferences are the medium, slow and tedious perhaps, but in the final result more beneficial and lasting, replacing war. True, international conferences cost money, fairly large sums sometimes, but a mere bagatelle to the tremendous cost of war.

A Costly Lawsuit

CUSTOMER OF PARIS UNDERGROUND RAILWAY HAD NO CASE

A lawsuit which lasted six years has just been concluded in Paris. The suit had been commenced in Paris. The amount at issue was five centimes. Apparently, after a book of tickets of the Metro, the Paris underground railway, had been bought, fares were raised, and a supplementary charge of five centimes was demanded when 700 in the Netherlands. Mr. Wood is now busy painting them before they disappear. He has done 200, and while he has been at work more than one hundred mills have been pulled sufficient in costs to have taken him one hundred and seventy windmills.

Windmills In England

Artist Discovers More Than In The Netherlands

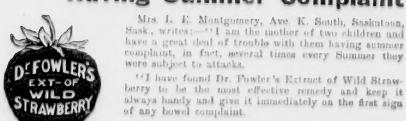

Windmill laurels are usually given to Holland, but facts are not in accord with popular belief. An artist of Gainsborough, Lincolnshire, England, K. S. Wood, has discovered that England has over two thousand windmills and that there are only 700 in the Netherlands. Mr. Wood is one of the ticket sellers. The result was that this action was taken against him. He has done 200, and while he has been at work more than one hundred mills have been pulled down. Lincolnshire leads with one hundred and seventy windmills.

Troubled With Her Children Having Summer Complaint

Mrs. L. E. Montgomery, Ave. K, Smith, Saskatch., writes: "I am the mother of two children and have a great deal of trouble with them having summer complaint, in fact, several times every summer they will begin to attack me."

"I have found Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry to be the most effective remedy and keep it always handy and give it immediately on the first sign of any bowel complaint."

"Thanks to Dr. Fowler's I no longer dread the summer months."

More Divorces In West Increase Is Shown In the Four Western Provinces

Divorce is decreasing in Quebec, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and the Yukon, but in New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and the North West Territories it is increasing according to figures taken at the census by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. There are in all Canada 7,441 divorced persons as compared with 7,401 men before. They numbered 4,409 in 1912, and only 661 in 1901.

The striking feature of the divorce situation in Canada is that in the old provinces with an older Canadian population, more homogeneous and with more of its population provincial, divorce has decreased. But in the newer provinces where there has been a larger percentage of incoming population divorce has increased. The most notable example of this is British Columbia where the proportion of those born outside that province is the greatest in Canada, the greatest increase in divorce has taken place.

The increase in British Columbia is 622 in a decade, or from 1,030 to 1,652. That increase is greater than the total increase in Canada which was only 40. Alberta coming second in the category of non-province born, increased 312, or from 102 to 1,014. Manitoba, which has a greater urban population than Saskatchewan increased from 506 to 603. Saskatchewan grew from 570 to 667.

The increases in the four western provinces was 1,178, while the decreases in the eastern provinces amounted to 1,138. Some of the difference, of course, would be due to difference in divorce legislation.

Daring Flight Proposed

Picard Plans To Make Balloon Ascension Over Hudson Bay Next Summer

Prof. Auguste Picard, the only man who has looked twice upon the world from 10 miles above it, plans to ascend to the stratosphere again next summer from the northwestern shore of Canada's Hudson Bay. In some ways it would be a more difficult flight than the first two, for the winds blow across northern Canada might drop a balloon in wastes as dreary and inaccessible as anywhere on earth.

Nevertheless, as soon as the Belgian scientist has finished calculating results recorded by the instruments he will begin preparations for the third experiment.

"We plan to take off from the northwest shore of Hudson Bay, as close to the north pole as we can get," he said, recently. "Our purpose will be to complete the study of cosmic rays at a point where the lines of magnetic force penetrate the stratosphere. When we know how the rays act under these conditions we will have the answer to many scientific problems."

The professor said that he had risen nearly 55,000 feet, a point at which the temperature inside the gondola of the balloon was five degrees below zero Fahrenheit, and outside 47 degrees below.

Luxurious Car For Boy

Built To Order For Young Son Of Indian Prince

What is described as the most luxurious car ever built to order for a boy has been completed in England for the eleven-year-old son of an Indian prince, the Maharajah of Jodhpur. Beneath the hood is a four-cylinder motor that will drive the car 74 miles on a gallon of gas. The miniature seats, as well as the steering wheel and controls, are boy-size. In all respects says one the car might typify the fond day dream of an average boy. The Maharajah has ordered special gears installed that will limit the driver's speed to 15 miles an hour.

An Oasis Of Beauty

New Park In The Cypress Hills Of Saskatchewan

The matrist on the south road out of Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, climbs 1,800 feet to the newly created Cypress Hills Provincial Park, an area of eighteen square miles of pine covered hills that lies twenty miles south of the town. Here have been established by the government a forest reserve and game sanctuary. The streams are clear and cool, well suited to the rainbow and Lake Leven trout, fry placed in them some years ago. As a result of the wars between the Cree, Blackfoot and Blackfeet, this area became a "No Man's Land," was little hunted and became a haven for wild life, and to this day it has been a favoured spot. The traveller is hardly aware of approaching the park, until suddenly topping the crest of hills there breaks into view a beautiful scene of forest and stream. It is truly an oasis of beauty, located in the Cypress range of broken hills, scarred with deep ravines, fantastic crags and rounded elevations.

Dams placed in Belanger and Lone Pine creeks, tributaries of the Frenchman River, which loses itself across the Montana Border, have created two charming lakes, 4,000 feet above sea level, known as Loch Lomond and Loch Leven, having a water area of approximately 200 acres. In addition to rustic bridges that punctuate the woodland paths in the new park, there will be found accommodation for the vacationists that includes splendid camp sites, a sixteen room sleeping building, and a nearby kitchen house.

Perils Of Motor Fatigue

Great Risk Of Accidents When Driver Is Drowsy

Regulations now demand that drivers of motor trucks shall remain on duty for only a certain period of time, for that may be risk of them falling asleep at the wheel and bringing injury to themselves or others on the road. This is a sensible provision, the full force of which is revealed in the number of highway accidents directly traceable to fatigue on the part of drivers, and if it were possible for operators of private motor vehicles voluntarily to adopt the same rules, there is no doubt whatever that there would be a marked lessening in the number of traffic accidents. Safe operation of motor vehicles necessitates unceasing vigilance on the part of driver. It cannot be carried out without great risk, especially on much-travelled roads, and if the driver even nods at the wheel, and he is so overcome with fatigue that he falls asleep, the consequences may be (and very often are) most disastrous.

The Proven Asthma Remedy. Since scientists stated there has been no lack of much heralded remedies, but they have proved short lived and worthless. The ever growing reputation of Dr. J. D. It has never been pushed by sensational methods, but has simply gone on effecting relief and making new converts.

Two Exceptions

An Irish magistrate, one of the old school, was summing up a case in a Dublin court. The plaintiff was a handsome woman, and her good-looking daughter was one of the witnesses.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said his honor, "everything in the case seems plain except, of course Mrs. O'Toole and her charming daughter."

WOMAN LOSES 28 lbs.

Trips Upstairs Like a 2-Year-Old

A woman writes: "Three months ago, after much argument, I was persuaded against my will to try Kruschen Salts to reduce my weight, which was 222 lbs. I had tried other things, but all to no avail. After three weeks of Kruschen, I had lost 5 lbs. 4 ozs. and I felt five years younger. I really must say I feel a different woman. My age is 37 years, and my weight is 194 lbs. 28 lbs. date, and before, to go upstairs was a great effort; now, with my husband says, I trip up like a two-year-old."

Kruschen salts keep the system free from encumbering waste matter. Unless this wastage is regularly expelled it will give rise to rheumatic and other body poisons. And Nature is liable to tax us for the neglect of storing up poison-hazardous material in the way in the form of fatty tissue. Unlike most salts, Kruschen is not merely a laxative. It is a combination of six salts which have a tonic influence upon every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of your body.

Reward Wheat

In Finding Favor In a Number Of Saskatchewan Areas

Reward wheat is finding favor in an increasing number of Saskatchewan districts according to Prof. J. B. Harrington, professor of field horticulture at Saskatchewan University. Seven farms on the hills east of Moose Jaw report better yields from Reward than Marquis.

At Kryder, B. Ramsay, extension worker of the University of Saskatchewan, found that Reward wheat was replacing Garnet in favor. The Garnet wheat had lodged badly and shows considerable rust this year, particularly in the lodged spots. The Kryder district had a heavy crop and cutting was well advanced.

Dr. Harrington has returned from a trip of 1,800 miles in the province chiefly undertaken to compare tests made of Reliance wheat and Marquis wheat grown side by side at a number of points in the province.

A Colony Of Dwarfs

Everything Built On Small Scale In Suburb Of Berlin

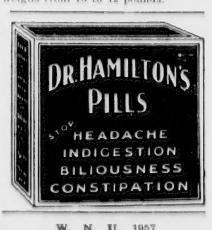

In a southeastern suburb of Berlin a colony of some fifty dwarfs has established a miniature town. Everything for the little people is on a small scale, "small houses with small rooms filled with small furniture. The inhabitants are mostly stage folk. They have recently received official recognition of their village by the postmaster general. He has given authority for the building of a small post office to be called Zwergtstadt, or Dwarf City. The budget citizens have planned their tiny homes not only for their own comfort, but to exclude persons of normal height.

Ahead Of Domination

It may amaze some people to learn that the value of the output sold on the farms of the United Kingdom exceeds that of agricultural production in either Canada or Australia. For the average pre-depression year, it is estimated by a writer in the London Times at £300,000,000 as against £275,000,000 in the Dominions mentioned.

Great Bear Lake Mineral Field Destined to Place Canada in Front As Largest Radium Producer

"Almost too good to be true" is the way J. C. McNabb, engineer of construction Canadian Pacific Railways, describes prospects for the Great Bear Lake mineral fields, following an inspection tour.

Mr. McNabb firmly believes in the enormous potential wealth of the district, he declared, and it will some day place Canada in the forefront of the world as a radium producer. Silver, copper, and other valuable minerals abound there, too.

The new reduction plant, established by the Dominion Department of Mines in Ottawa, has completed several extractions of radium from the Great Bear pitchblende with "almost fantastic results," he continued. From 97 to 98 per cent of the radium has been extracted from the ore in each test.

"The plant was placed in Ottawa rather at Great Bear Lake because three tons of acid to one ton of ore are used in the reduction process," he said. "Thus it is cheaper to ship out ore than to ship the acid to Great Bear owing to prevailing transportation difficulties and high freight rates inevitable when supplies must be carried by airplane or portaged for many miles overland."

"I believe the Ottawa plant will become one of the leading units of its kind in the world. It is the only one of its kind in the British Empire at present and obviates the necessity of shipping the ore to Belgium or Czechoslovakia for reduction."

Mr. McNabb pointed out that the life of the radium salts secured from the Great Bear Lake pitchblende was estimated at 250 years while the Belgian product was effective for only 20 years. It was to be hoped, he concluded, that in the near future Canada would be able to break away from the Belgian combine with beneficial results for all mankind.

Centenary Of the Lawnmower

Machine First Used For Trimming Nap Cloth

It is just a hundred years since the lawnmower was invented. It was not invented in the first instance for shaving lawns. The first machine of the kind was produced by Edwin Budding, a textile engineer, to trim off the nap from newly woven cloth, a task formerly done by hand with the aid of scurbs. This machine was responsible for an outbreak of riots in cloth-weaving districts. Budding saw that the cloth mowers of his time might well be applied to lawns, and he produced an extraordinary contraption about as big as a modern motor-car which did the job fairly well. His later machines were smaller.

Gold production in British Columbia increased by 25 per cent, in the first half of this year. placer mining is active with 5,000 men in search of gold. Production of all minerals in British Columbia in the first six months of 1932 was valued at $14,330,000.

Fewer Giants and Dwarfs

Advance Of Medical Science Said To Be Reason

The death of Vlado Vejlovitch, the world's smallest man, at Ljubljana, near Belgrade, brings to light the fact that both giants and dwarfs are becoming scarce. The advance of medical science is responsible for this change, and although the average general height has decreased slightly there are fewer extremes at either end. On the scale Vlado earned his title with a mere 23 inches, but his widow is only four inches taller. While dwarfs are comparatively rare, there is much more competition for super-giants.

While doctors can offer no limits for dwarfs, giants do not often exceed seven feet. A surprising number have surpassed this imposing height, though, the most notable giant of recent years being Machinov, a Russian mammoth man. Machinov attained the enormous stature of nine feet eight inches, or over five times that of Vlado. Machinov's appetite was in proportion to his bulk, for he required two quarts of milk, a dozen eggs and a couple of leaves of bread for breakfast. His dinner consisted of a mere three pounds of meat, five pounds of potatoes and half a gallon of beer, while at nine o'clock he fortified himself with a light supper of 19 eggs, three pounds of bread and butter and a quart of tea. For his evening smoke he could then stroll out and light his cigarette at a gas lamp.

John Middleton, a Lancashire giant of the seventeenth century, is reputed to have attained nine feet eight inches also. The World-Wide News Service.

Canadian Troops Made Good Trade Emissaries

French People Acquired Taste For Their Cheese and Jam

Canadian soldiers who served in France acted as trade emissaries for Canadian products, according to Col. H. Barre, Dominion Trade Commissioner in France.

During the Great War, he said, in a recent interview, Canadian troops shared their cheese and jam rations with French people and the latter developed a liking for these foods. As a result there is a demand for Canadian cheese and jam in France, particularly in the northern part.

Airplane Delivers Paper

Locally Fire Lookout in California Receives Two Daily

Miles away from railroad or main highway the fire lookout at Frazer Peak, California, receives his daily paper by airplane.

A small group gathers twice a day to gaze at a speeding airplane as it drops a San Francisco newspaper on the way to Los Angeles and a Los Angeles newspaper on its way north again later in the day.

Jess Hart, the engineer on the flying craft, has received a letter from A. L. Ellis, lookout at the home station in the Tehachapi range, thanking him for the service.

Life Saving Cautions Issued By Game Association.

With the opening of several hunting seasons and with others to open shortly, more than 7,000 sportsmen in Canada and the United States will go afield in pursuit of their favorite game. For them the American Game Association issues a list of "Life Saving Cautions."

"Hundreds of people are killed or wounded each year, principally thro' their own carelessness. Many hunters kill or wound themselves in the pursuit of game," the Association points out.

Common among the causes of fatalities and injury are: firing guns through fences; guns knocked down by dogs; unsecured loaded guns in automobiles; accidental firing of guns through bottoms of boats; the hunters drowning with the sinking boat; accidental stopping-up of the barrels with dirt; leaving obstruction in barrels; cleaning rags, cords and the like; carelessness in handling guns by letting them explode with barrels under water; shooting at movement without seeing clearly; and firing at game without looking beyond it in the line of fire.

"DON'T carry your gun put together in automobiles, wagons, etc.; it's the 'unloaded' gun here that shoots too! Many states have laws against carrying uncased guns in automobiles."

"DON'T shoot your gun after putting it together until you've looked through the barrel or barrels and find it clear."

"DON'T pull guns through fences—carry them over the fence with you, keeping the muzzle pointing away from yourself and others. If a breach-leader, open before crossing."

"DON'T load your unloaded gun against a tree or leave it lying on the ground if you have dogs about when you step to rest. They may knock it down or step on it."

"DON'T lay your loaded gun down in the bottom of a boat; picking it up sometimes causes it accidentally to discharge and shoot the bottom out."

"DON'T shoot your gun after falling, climbing a bank, or walking over newly-plowed ground, until you have examined the barrel and find it clear."

"DON'T let your gun muzzle point towards water, for, if the gun is fired with muzzle under water it will explode most easily."

"DON'T shoot at movement—it may be a man, cow, or other live stock. Besides, every sportsman not only wants to see his game, but hit it in a vital spot."

"DON'T shoot at game until after you have assured yourself that no other living creature, house, barn or other such property is in the line of fire."

The prairie provinces have 1,042,278 more acres under wheat this year than last, according to a recent report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. For all Canada the increase is 894,350 acres.

The initial payment for Alberta Pool wheat for the 1932-33 crop-year has been set at 35 cents per bushel. The basis is N. 1 Northern, Vancouver. The initial payment is similar to last year's figure.

Farm implement manufacturers have sold more products and obtained more prospects during this year's Canadian National Exhibition than in 1931, leading machinery manufacturers agree. In one instance sales increases have reached 100 per cent, with prospects touching a 500 per cent advance.

Beet growers are looking to the best crop this year yet harvested, and both recent rains and warm weather, with bright sunshine since have increased growth, healthy condition and most important, making of sugar beets which had good opportunity for this before. Probably 1,000 cars of 50 to 55 tons each will be shipped from the Taber-Barlow district.

Chief James Smart, head of the City of Calgary Fire Dept. since 1918, and a member of the force for the past 47 years, is recommended for retirement at the end of the year by the commissioners, following the drastic program of economy advocated by the Council. Retirement of Inspector J. H. Cooper, of the City Police, and more than 50 other civic employees is also included in the economy recommendations.

Two-hundred-and-thirty counterfeit 50-cent pieces were destroyed in the Vancouver police court before Magistrate W. McKay. The law requires that all seized counterfeit coins be broken up by officers in the presence of a magistrate.

The "Flying Hutchinsons," the family who attempted to fly across the Atlantic, have been rescued by a British steamer off the coast of Greenland. The plane was wrecked and they had a narrow escape from death. Their experience should do much to make further foolish attempts of the kind unpopular.

Movement of grain over Alberta lines speeded up somewhat over the week-end, but slackened again on Tuesday, according to information from the western grain inspection office. During the week-end 619 cars were inspected, these including 150 No. 1 Hard; 273 No. 1 Northern; 130 No. 2 Northern, and 11 No. 3 Northern. Eight cars were tough.

Whether or not the province of Alberta has the legal right to collect a 5-cent tax on every gallon of gas sold in the province will be decided by the supreme court, probably at the next Calgary session this month. J. J. Fraley, acting in behalf of the attorney-general's department, has commenced action against the Globe Oil Company, of Calgary, and M.A. Lavoie, of Turner Valley, both of whom, it is alleged, have failed to collect the tax in full.

The Canadian Bar Association meeting in Calgary declare that if transients were permitted to move from place to place, a new criminal class would be developed.

Here and There

Starting for northern regions word reaches us a producer of minerals, Canada led the world in the production of nickel and asbestos in 1931, ranking second in gold, platinum metals and cobalt, third in silver and fourth in refined zinc.

Mystery cruises, so popular out of New York, Southampton and Stettin, have been to the Pacific Coast, being undertaken by the trim little coastal liner "Princess Patricia" of the Canadian Pacific Line, which took the first of these cruises recently. The ship had a full sailing list.

The Canadian Open Golf Championship, third of the six contests figuring yearly in the Royal and Ancient game, will be staged on next course of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, next year, won to that having been received by the secretary of the links from the Royal Canadian Golf Club.

Seventy-seven per cent of wheat and 62 per cent of oats and barley in the three western provinces were harvested by September 15, according to the report issued on that date by the general agricultural department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Winnipeg. This result was reached in spite of the half-harvesting operations due to heavy rainfall in wide sections of the Prairie Provinces.

All rights are reserved for the story of the "Black Cat" that got away, were broken recently when a well-known fisherman hooked a beaver in Vermilion Lakes and played it for five minutes before the tradition was fulfilled with loss of fly and leader. The hero of the exploit was S. C. Bennett, of Toronto, guest at the Banff Springs Hotel.

Canadians got a thrill recently when the British A. Mitchell, a triple trans-Atlantic solo flier, spoke over the air, which he has conquered, from the Mayfair Hotel, and the Canadian triple liner Empress of Britain. Captain Mitchell was heard on 34 radio stations from Halifax to Victoria, and a network arranged by the Canadian Pacific Department of Communications. Local speakers distributed the broadcast to 60,000 listeners in the big city of Toronto.

Through the "Princess Royal," veteran of the Canadian Pacific Railway B.C. Coast steamship fleet has been scrapped and is now in the limbo of disrepair after a long career with both flying and on the air at Ocean Falls, B.C., where it has been installed at the Ocean Falls United Church mission, which ministers to the spiritual welfare of Japanese children.

For Unemployed Families

Seven Provinces Have Signed Agreement Under Settlement Plan

Seven Canadian provinces have signed agreements under a relief settlement plan by which the Dominion Provinces and municipality concerned each contribute one-third of a sum not exceeding $600 per family to cover the cost of modest establishment on the land and substitute ETSISH SH the land and subsistence for the first two years. The relief settlement plan is for unemployed families resident in the provinces, who are in receipt of direct relief, and are qualified and physically fit to undertake life on the farm.

This relief settlement plan is primarily an unemployment measure—not a colonization scheme. The underlying principle of the plan is to help people to help themselves by enabling families to contribute to their own maintenance and eventually become self-supporting. Public moneys that would otherwise be spent in the form of direct relief to maintain families in comparative idleness will be expended toward assisting qualified families to get a modest start on the land.

New Equipment For Houses

Air-Cooling System Will Be Part Of Modern Necesities

The day is coming when "a modern house" will mean not only one equipped with a bathroom and a furnace, but with an air-cooling system. The device is still too high priced, and more or less in the experimental stage; but it will become perfected and less expensive in a few years, and we shall then be able to live and sleep in quiet, air-cooled and air-washed rooms, with the house windows and doors shut to keep out the hot air, and incidentally, the disturbing noises of the streets.

Man Who Surrendered Jerusalem To British Died Recently

The man who surrendered Jerusalem to the British recently died in the Government hospital at Hebron at the age of 65. He was Ahmed Sharad, and was an inspector in the Turkish gendarmerie in Jerusalem when it was captured by the British in 1917. In company with the late Mayor of Jerusalem, the inspector was walking the outskirts of the city carrying a white flag on a long bamboo pole and delivered it to the British vanguard.

RIVERBEND SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

Manitoba Institution Devoted To The Educational and Aesthetic Development Of Young Canadian Womenhood

Prepared to provide instruction from Grades 1 to 12, Riverbend School for Girls, Winnipeg, will open for the autumn term September 1, according to an announcement made by the Principal, Miss Joan Foster, M.A.

Since 1929, when Riverbend, the former home of the late Sir James Dobson, was bought by the United Church of Canada, a boarding and day school for girls, it has reached an academic standard approved by the Department of Education, and is regularly inspected. Eight acres of beautifully treed property skirting the Assiniboine River have proved an ideal location for the Assiniboine River Institute with subsequent success as a teacher of Miss Ethel Barnes from London University, with honours in English. She holds a London teacher's diploma and has had experience in English and American girls' schools.

Thoroughly qualified to teach creative subjects, including drawing and swimming, as well as apparatus work, Miss Bowman is a graduate of the Margaret Eaton School of Physical Education, Toronto, and has had previous experience in a girls' school.

Due to the fact that the Winnipeg city schools are this year discontinuing the teaching of Grade XII, increased enrollment has been placed upon this grade at Riverbend. The members of the teaching staff are all fully qualified, and are specialists in the subjects taught.

The Board of Governors includes James A. Richardson, LL.D.; Isaac Pitblado, K.C.; G. N. Alkins, K.C., Rev. J. A. Corrie, D.D., D. C. Coleman, LL.D., Principal John Macmillan, D.D., M. R. Reid, J. W. Allen, D.D., Lieutenant F. Park, Mrs. David Watt and Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, Honorary Secretary.

The Advisory Council are names familiar in the church and cultural life of Winnipeg, and the following from other points in western Canada, from which many of its pupils are drawn, are members:

Moose Jaw: Mrs. Robert Forke; Pipestone: Mrs. C. F. Adams, Calgary: Mrs. A. F. Laird, Yorkton; Mrs. B. C. Wallace, Edmonton; Mrs. Duncan, Jean Macmillan, D.D., Mrs. Murray, Saskatoon; Mrs. T. A. Nelson, Brandon; Miss Alice Fife Kenora; Mrs. Douglass J. Thom, Regina; Mrs. A. W. Scott, Calgary.

Demand For Flaxseed

The Ways Of Lighting

Scientists Have Discovered Many Facts Regarding Its Vagaries

Just as if we have nothing to worry about, scientists now tell us that lightning can strike upward just as well as downward. They have 185 photographs to prove that lightning bounces. You may be quick enough to sidestep a bolt detected on its way down, but what's the use? You'll be caught on the rebound, though it probably doesn't make any difference to the person struck whether lightning hit an uproot or delivered a lightning punch.

In fact the whole thing oughtn't to make any difference to anybody struck or not struck. The great majority of us have survived hundreds of thunderstorms just by taking care that lightning did not fall on us from above. It wouldn't have saved many persons had the newly discovered facts been household lore a century ago. In the same breath the scientists announce that negative lightning is the deadly variety; positive lightning won't do any worse than melt the filling in one's teeth. How to tell whether an approaching bolt is negative or positive is not included in the information.—Newark Evening News.

Move Store Of Gold

Sufficient Of Precious Metal To Pay a City Street

The United States Government began the task of moving enough gold to pave the main street of a United States city.

Sixty-eight truck loads containing gold valued at $200,000,000 were carted from the old assay office on Wall Street, New York, to the new one at South Street, and Old Slip. The work will continue until the entire stock, estimated at $2,000,000,000 is moved.

The gold is moved in armored trucks. Machine guns are mounted inside to forestall any bandits ambitious enough to attempt a grand劫. Five guards ride with each truck.

Turn Penny For Luck

Steepjacks Are Superstitious About Money On Monument At Buffalo

The penny on the highest point of the soldiers' and sailors' monument at Buffalo, N.Y., has been turned over and over. Nepple expects good luck for next 12 years. Nepple was clearing the monument in preparation for the city's centennial celebration when he performed the ceremony of turning the penny. He explained that the first steepjack to climb a monument puts a penny on the top. Each steepjack who climbs the monument thereafter is expected to turn the penny. If he neglects this task, or removes the penny, he may be pursued by bad luck for 12 years.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

BY MARGARET PEDLER

"The Splendid Folly," "The Hermit of Far End," Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

Facing her, as she reached the top-most step was a glass door, giving entrance to Claire's own particular sanctum, which usually, in summer, stood wide open to admit the soft, warm air and the fragrant scents breathed out from a border of old-fashioned flowers, sweet and prim and quaint, which encircled the base of the house.

But today the door was shut and forbidding-looking, and Jean experienced a sudden sense of misgiving. Supposing Claire chanced to be out just when she had arrived brimming over with the hundred little feminine confidences that were to have formed part of the "heart-to-heart" talk? It would be too aggravating!

Her eager glance flew ahead, searching the room's interior, chequered by the lighted glass panels of the door. Then with a startled cry, she halted, her hand clapped against her lips to stifle the involuntary exclamation of dismay and terror that had leapt to them.

The afternoon sun shone faintly upon a picture of grotesque horror—a nightmare conception that could only have sprung from the macabre imagination of a madman.

In the middle of the room Claire sat bound to a high-backed chair, secured by cords which cut cruelly across her slender body. Her face had assumed a curious ashen shade, and her eyes were fixed in a numb look of fascinated terror upon the tall, angular figure of her husband, which pranced in front of her jerkily, like a maniac. While he threatened her with a revolver, his thin lips, snorting viciously, drew back far enough to reveal those of a smirking animal.

He was addressing her in queer high-pitched tones that had something inhuman about them—the echoing, empty sound of a voice no longer controlled by a reasoning brain.

"And you needn't worry that Mr. Brennan will be overwhelmed with grief at your early demise. He won't—te-he-he!"—he gave a foolish, cackling laugh—"he won't have time to miss you much! I'll attend to that—I'll attend to that! There'll be a second bullet for you dear friend, Mr. Brennan."

Crack! The sharp report of a revolver shattered the summer silence as Jean sprang forward and wrenched at the handle of the door. But it refused to yield. It had been locked upon from inside!

Then the panic cleared away, showed that Claire was unharmed. Sir Adrian had deliberately fired above her head and was now rocking his long, lean body to and fro in a proxenus of horrible, noiseless mirth. Evidently he purposed to amuse himself by inflicting the torture of suspense upon his victim before he actually murdered her, for Latimer had been at one time an expert revolver shot, and even drug-riders as he had since become, he could not well have missed the helpless target by chance.

Claire's head had fallen back, but no merciful oblivion of unconsciousness had come to her relief. Her mouth was a little open and the breath came in short, quick gasps between her lips. Her face looked like a mask, set in a blank stupor of horror.

The sound of the shot brought Blaise and Nick racing to Jean's side. One glance through the glass door sufficed them.

"God in heaven! He's gone mad!" Nick's voice was quick with fear for the woman he loved.

"Get Tucker here at once!"

Blaise's swift command, flung at her as he and Nick leapt forward, sent Jean flying along the terrace as fast as feet winged with unutterable terror could carry her. As she ran, she heard the crash of splintering glass as the two men she had left behind smashed in the panel of the locked door, and, almost simultaneously, Sir Adrian's pistol barked again—a fourth shot, and then a fifth in quick succession.

The sound seemed to wring every nerve in her body. Blaise . . . had that madman shot him?

With sobbing breath she rushed blindly on into the house and met the butler, running too, white-faced and horridly shaken.

"My God, miss!"—Sir Adrian's murmuring her ladyship—and the room doors locked!

The man almost bubbled out the words in his extremity of fear.

"The terrace door . . . Quick, Tucker!"—Jean gasped out the order.

"Mr. Brennan's there . . . broken in the glass . . ."

Not waiting to hear the end of the sentence Tucker bolted out of the hall and along the terrace, while Jean leaned up against the doorway drawing long, shuddering breaths that seemed actually to tear their way through her throat and yet brought no relief to the agonized thudding of her heart. For the moment she was physically unable to run another yard.

But her mind was working with abnormal clarity and swiftness. This was her doing—here if she had not disturbed Nick the day before he had proposed taking Claire away with him, all this would never have happened . . . Claire would have been safe—safe—but she had suffered, clinging to her bed that had no real good ever come to it, and she had done her best to break her utterly.

Sir Adrian's resistance of temptation was culminating in a ghastly tragedy that might have been avoided. To Jean it seemed in that moment as if her world were falling in ruins about her.

But her mind was working with abnormal clarity and swiftness. This was her doing—here if she had not disturbed Nick the day before he had proposed taking Claire away with him, all this would never have happened . . . Claire would have been safe—safe—but she had suffered, clinging to her bed that had no real good ever come to it, and she had done her best to break her utterly.

A second procession wended its way upstairs. Nick bearing the slight, unconscious figure in his arms while Jean and a kindly-faced household followed.

"Her ladyship's maid is out, miss," volunteered the girl. "But perhaps I can knock at the door."

Jean smiled at her, the frank, friendly smile that always won her the eager willing service of man and maid alike.

"I'm sure you can," she said gently. "As soon as we can bring her ladyship round, you shall help me undress her and put her to bed."

In a few minutes Claire recovered consciousness, but she was horribly shaken and distraught, crying and clinging to Jean or to the household who was almost crying, too, out of sympathy—like a child frightened by the dark.

Jean, understanding just what was needed, shepherded Nick to the door of the room, where he lingered unhappily, his anxious gaze still fixed on the slender shrinking figure upon the couch.

"Don't worry, Nick," she said assuringly. "She'll be all right; it's only reaction. But I know what she wants—she wants a real mother-person. Go down and ring up Lady Anne, will you, and ask her to come over in the car as quickly as she can."

Nick nodded; the idea commanded itself to him. His pale golden narcissus so nearly broken, would be safe indeed with the kind, comforting arms of his mother about her.

With difficulty avoiding the protruding pieces of glass, Jean stepped into the room. Her first thought was for Claire, who now hung helpless and unconscious against the bonds that held her. But Blaise very speedily directed her attention to something of more urgent importance for the moment.

"Unlock that door," he called to her. "Quick!" He was still panting from the exertion of the recent struggle. "Get a rope of some sort!"

Jean turned the key and tore open the door leading into the hall. The little flock of servants gathered outside overflowed into the room, frightened and excitedly inquisitive.

"Get some coffee, quick," commanded Jean authoritatively. "Any thing else? Do it if I've got to."

Two or three of the servants backed away from the main body and ran frantically in search of the required cord, glad to be of use, and very soon Sir Adrian, bound as humanely as his struggles rendered possible was borne to his room and laid upon his bed.

"Ring up the doctor," ordered Blaise, as he assisted in the rather difficult process of conveying Sir Adrian upstairs. "Tell him to come to Charlwood as quickly as he can get here." And another eager little detachment of domestics flew off to carry out his bidding. The underfootman won the race for the telephone by a good half-yard, and in a series of voices fairly twittered with the agitating and amazing news he had to impart, transmitted the message to the doctor's parlour-maid at the other end of the wire, adding a few picturesque and stimulating details concerning the struggle which had just taken place—an which, apparently, had perceive with the eye of faith through the wooden panels of the locked door.

Meanwhile Nick and Jean had turned their attention towards releasing Claire, who, as the last of her bonds were cut, toppled forward in a dead faint into the former's arms.

A second procession wended its way upstairs. Nick bearing the slight, unconscious figure in his arms while Jean and a kindly-faced household followed.

"Her ladyship's maid is out, miss," volunteered the girl. "But perhaps I can knock at the door."

Nick nodded; the idea commanded itself to him. His pale golden narcissus so nearly broken, would be safe indeed with the kind, comforting arms of his mother about her.

Within the room Jean could discern a confused hurly-burly of screaming, writhing figures—Blaise and Nick and the butler struggling to overpower Sir Adrian, who was fighting them with all the cunning and the amazing strength of madness. From beyond came the clamour of people hattering uselessly at the door, the shrill, excited voices of the frightened servants who had collected in the hall outside the room.

For a few breathless seconds Jean stood frozen in wonder—wildly wondering whether Sir Adrian would succeed in breaking away from his captors. Then she saw Nick's foot shoot out suddenly like the piston-rod of an engine, and Sir Adrian staggered and came crashing down on to his knees. The other two closed in upon him swiftly, and a minute later he was lying prone on his back with the three men holding him down by main force.

With difficulty avoiding the protruding pieces of glass, Jean stepped into the room. Her first thought was for Claire, who now hung helpless and unconscious against the bonds that held her. But Blaise very speedily directed her attention to something of more urgent importance for the moment.

"Unlock that door," he called to her. "Quick!" He was still panting from the exertion of the recent struggle. "Get a rope of some sort!"

Jean turned the key and tore open the door leading into the hall. The little flock of servants gathered outside

It was an intense relief to Jean, when Lady Anne arrived and quietly and unobtrusively took command of affairs. And there was some need for her untrained poise and capability throughout the night that followed.

Claire, nervous and utterly unstrung, slept but little, waking constantly with a cry of terror as in imagination she relived the ordeal of the afternoon, while in the big bedroom across the landing, where her husband lay, the grim shadow of death itself was drawing momentarily closer.

By the time the doctor had arrived in answer to the summons sent, there seemed small need for the strong cords with which Sir Adrian's limbs were bound. The wild fury of the afternoon's struggle had thoroughly exhausted him, and he lay, propped up with pillows, apparently in a state of stupor, breathing very feebly.

"Hear," the doctor told Tormain after he had made a swift examination. "I've known for months that Sir Adrian might go out at any moment. His heart was already impaired, and, of course, he's dragged for years. He may recover a little, but it's as I think is highly probable, there's any recurrence of the brain disturbance—why, hell, no live but a second paroxysm."

The heart won't stand it."

Tormain endeavoured to look appropriately shocked. But the doctor was a man and an honest one, and not even professional etiquette prevented his adding, with a jerk of his head in the direction of Claire's bedroom.

"It would be a merciful deliverance for that poor woman. There's a strain of madness in the Latimers, you know. And—with a shrug—naturally Sir Adrian's habits have accustomed it in his own case."

But the doctor was mistaken in calculation. Sir Adrian's constitution was stronger than he estimated. As Nick had once bitterly commented to Jean, the man was like a piece of steel wire, and two dreadful outbreaks of maniacal fury had to be endured before the wire began to weaken.

During the course of the first paroxysm it was all the four men could do to restrain him from leaping from the bed and rushing out of the room, since, during the period of quiescence which had preceded the doctor's arrival, a mistaken feeling of humanity had dictated the loosening of the cords which bound him.

He fought and screamed, uttering the most horrible imprecations, and his evil intent towards the woman who was his wife was unmistakable. With her husband free to work his will, Claire's life would not have been worth a moment's purchase.

He fought and screamed, uttering the most horrible imprecations, and his evil intent towards the woman who was his wife was unmistakable. With her husband free to work his will, Claire's life would not have been worth a moment's purchase.

During the course of that sixth paroxysm it was all the four men could do to restrain him from leaping from the bed and rushing out of the room, since, during the period of quiescence which had preceded the doctor's arrival, a mistaken feeling of humanity had dictated the loosening of the cords which bound him.

He fought and screamed, uttering the most horrible imprecations, and his evil intent towards the woman who was his wife was unmistakable. With her husband free to work his will, Claire's life would not have been worth a moment's purchase.

During the course of that seventh paroxysm it was all the four men could do to restrain him from leaping from the bed and rushing out of the room, since, during the period of quiescence which had preceded the doctor's arrival, a mistaken feeling of humanity had dictated the loosening of the cords which bound him.

He fought and screamed, uttering the most horrible imprecations, and his evil intent towards the woman who was his wife was unmistakable. With her husband free to work his will, Claire's life would not have been worth a moment's purchase.

A fortnight had come and gone. Sir Adrian's body had been laid to rest in Coombe Eavis churchyard, and there were some need for his untrained poise and capability throughout the night that followed.

Claire, nervous and utterly unstrung, slept but little, little, waking constantly with a cry of terror as in imagination she relived the ordeal of the afternoon, while in the big bedroom across the landing, where her husband lay, the grim shadow of death itself was drawing momentarily closer.

Fire Prevention Week Announced

Proclamation ordering a fire prevention week from Oct. 9th to 15th, is announced in the current issue of the Alberta Gazette. The announcement states that the average annual loss of insurable property in Canada is more than $15,000,000 and loss of life more than 300 persons.

The proclamation states that the waste occasioned "cannot be re-created," and is "an absolute and irrevocable loss largely distributed over the entire population through the agency of fire insurance, which imposes an inescapable and burdensome upon industry and thrift, and substantially adds to the cost of living."

Eighty per cent of fires occur through "reckless ignorance and neglect, and are therefore preventable," the proclamation states, adding that "the exercise of reasonable prudence and proper carelessness on the part of responsible individuals would reduce the losses by fire in Canada to the comparatively insignificant proportions of losses in other countries."

Alberta Has Highest Yield In Wheat Crop

The wheat crop of all Canada is estimated at 467,150,000 bushels by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its crop report handed out a few days ago.

Last year the total crop was 304,144,000 bushels.

The wheat crop of the three prairie provinces, forecast at 466,000,000 bushels, as compared with 284,000,000 in 1931. Compared with last year yields are much higher, especially in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Alberta again has the highest yield per acre. The yield per acre for the entire West is nearly 17 bushels per acre, which is somewhat greater than the long-time average.
